Founder's Message

The global finance industry does not suffer from a lack of degrees; it suffers from a lack of job-ready professionals. For over two decades, I have witnessed this gap closely across audit, assurance, taxation, and advisory roles worldwide. Academic knowledge alone has never been enough. Careers are built where learning meets real work.

With this belief, I founded KC GlobEd, a finance-focused edutech platform committed to bridging academic learning with global professional practice through deeply industry-aligned education. Today, that mission advances further with the establishment of the world's first GCC School.

Located at the heart of India's Global Capability Centres in Cyber City, Gurugram, the GCC School is a purpose-driven campus built on a clear Employment-to-Education (E2E) philosophy. Here, careers come first; learning follows with precision.

Our vision is simple yet bold: to build elite finance professionals by aligning real roles before delivering targeted, outcome-driven education. High-potential learners are honoured by being connected to actual global roles and then equipped with exactly the skills, knowledge, and exposure those roles demand.

Our mission is to unify global qualifications, live industry exposure, and professional capabilities into a single, structured pathway. Through a rigorous one-year experiential learning model, learners progress from role alignment to capability mastery, transforming ambition into measurable performance.

The GCC School exists to create professionals who are not just employable, but indispensable, ready to contribute, adapt, and grow within global finance ecosystems from day one.

This is not a campus for certificates. This is a campus for careers.

Message from the Executive Director's Desk

Every learning ecosystem reaches a defining moment when its purpose aligns naturally with the needs of the world. At GCC School, this alignment is reflected in our focus on transitional education that connects academic understanding with professional execution.

Our approach is built around a clear developmental roadmap. Training at our campus is structured, applied, and strengthened through industry exposure, digital capability, and continuous mentoring. This ensures that students' progress with clarity, discipline, and confidence.

GCC School is committed to preparing professionals who can perform with responsibility, adapt to change, and contribute meaningfully in global finance environments.
